Manuel Muñoz, author of the
soon-to-be-released
novel What You See in the Dark
will be at Bakersfield College on Wednesday,
April 6.

2 presentations in the Norman Levan Center
(in the Administration Building)

10 A.M. and 2 P.M.

The event is co-sponsored by the Grace Van Dyke Bird Library and The Norman Levan Center for the Humanities.

Manuel Muñoz is a native of Dinuba, a graduate of Harvard, and teaches creative writing at the University of Arizona at Tucson. He is the author of two short story collections, The Faith Healer of Olive Avenue and Zigzagger.

His new novel, What You See in the Dark, is set in Bakersfield in the late 50s and evokes a film noir atmosphere. In the novel, Muñoz sets the filming of a movie—based on Hitchcock's Psycho—in Bakersfield.
