This project involves reading the book Hot Zone, by Richard Preston, published in 1994 by Random House. When you have completed the book, you will meet with the instructor (during office hours or by appointment) for about 15-20 minutes to answer some questions about the book’s content and your reactions to it.

It is recommended that you do not leave the meeting with your instructor until the last week before the project is due, as there may be others doing the same thing, and you might end up unable to complete the project.
