Hey Colleagues -

We are ready to expand our launch group of faculty for the Orientation and Assessment Tool for online students, starting with summer school and looking ahead toward a full launch in the fall.

This tool will do two things:

1. It will give students an idea of where they stand on technology tools that they will need to be a successful online students, and raise their awareness of good study habits and success patterns for online students.
2. It will give you, the instructor, a student-by-student and class overview of how your students perform in each of these areas, so you know who might need a little extra help.

It is easy to use, easy add to your online class, and doesn't take much time from your students. All you will have to do is add a single link to your online class. I highly recommend requiring all online students to do this during the first few days of class as a "Show me you are a serious student" exercise. If you are interested, I can set up an instructor account for you. Just email me and let me know that you are interested (for summer or fall).

Thanks for your time!

Bill
